PUB CAMPAIGNERS WIN AN EXTENSION

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A RESIDENTS' campaign has halted a much-loved pub from being snapped up, bulldozed or converted into flats until locals have been given a chance to pitch their own plans to the council to secure its future survival.

The Prince, in Trinity Road, Bowes Park – which shut earlier this year – was declared an “asset of community value” by Haringey Council last week following an online campaign by the Bowes and Bounds Connected community website.

The legal status effectively puts its sale or redevelopment to anyone other than a community interest group on hold for six months, giving local residents time to come up with alternative proposals to purchase the pub on behalf of the community.

Should there be no community bids, the premises can be disposed of at the end of the six-month period.

An additional safeguard means the pub cannot be demolished or its use changed without the local authority's explicit permission.

Richard Matz, who led the campaign to save The Prince, said it would give the community “breathing space” to respond with its own proposals to buy and run the pub.

The 56-year-old, who lives in Partridge Way, Bowes Park, pointed to the Antwerp Arms pub, in Church Road, Tottenham, which was faced with closure and is now thriving after the community bought shares in it to ensure its survival.

The Prince is within the Trinity Gardens Conservation Area, designated by Haringey Council as an area of special architectural or historic interest.

Mr Matz added: “The interest from locals in protecting the building shows that, with the right management, the pub could be a thriving community boozer once again.

“The long bar has great future community potential as a venue for live music, comedy, theatre, wedding functions and private hire.

“As one supporter of this application put it, ‘...sometimes only a pub will do’.”

Ali Demirci, one of the three Bounds Green ward councillors, who supported the website campaign, said: “The success of the application is a testament to the local community's hard work in protecting our local architectural heritage for continued social and recreational use.”

Dumped mattress's highly unusual location

CAN'T sleep? This unwanted mattress perched precariously on a rooftop would soon have you dropping off.

It was thrown on to a roof adjoining Stoneleigh Road car park, in Bruce Grove, Tottenham, and was among fly-tipped items of household furniture and junk collected by Haringey Council's enforcement team after repeated complaints from residents and shopkeepers about rubbish dumped there.

Who dumped it remains a mystery, but it was removed along with a fridge freezer, bags of rubbish, overflowing bins and abandoned cardboard boxes.

It was part of a crackdown by council enforcement officers and waste contractor Veolia, targeting borough blackspots where businesses are suspected of dumping waste, including West Green Road, Seven Sisters Road, Turnpike Lane, Green Lanes and Bruce Grove.

A total of 41 fixed penalty notices were issued and 10 businesses ordered to clear up or face court action.

“Fly-tipping is unacceptable and there are plenty of responsible and much less costly ways for businesses and residents to dispose of their rubbish,” said Stuart McNamarathe council's cabinet member for environment.

High cheek: The dumped mattress

“As this operation has shown, we will not hesitate to take action against those who blight our streets in this way,” he added.

Couple injured in knife attack

DETECTIVES are hunting a pair of knife-wielding robbers who injured a man and his girlfriend in a park.

The couple were sitting on a bench in Downhills Park, Tottenham, at 6pm last Wednesday when the attackers approached them and demanded the 24-year-old man's mobile phone.

When they tried to flee, the suspects produced knives and stabbed the man repeatedly in the back. He underwent surgery and was described by police as being in a stable condition in hospital.

His girlfriend suffered a cut to a hand and was also treated in hospital. Her injuries are not serious.

Both suspects are described as black and aged about 20 and were wearing scarves across their faces.

Anyone with information should call Haringey police on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Festival review

MEASURES to minimise the impact caused by large-scale music festivals held each summer in Finsbury Park are proposed in a review conducted by Haringey Council.

Residents and park users have complained about noise, disruption and large sections of the park being off limits to the public for weeks on end.

A review was carried out over the summer by the council's overview and scrutiny committee when the Wireless Festival was staged at the venue.

Improvements in the way events are managed together with better communication, swifter processing of complaints and greater engagement with residents and community groups are among its key recommendations.

Views sought as council prepares to wield the axe

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

COUNCIL chiefs are seeking residents' views on proposals to shave hundreds of thousands of pounds off the adult social care budget in a move which could see hundreds of pensioners paying for their own transport across the borough.

The local authority has issued a questionnaire for people to complete alongside the draft transport policy which details how council bosses intend to try and make savings of £60million by 2018 – a figure which includes a target of saving £10.8m from the adult social care budget.

The draft transport policy document states: "In 2014/15 adult social care spent just over £1.3m on providing door-to-door transport for adults with eligible social care needs."

The report adds that transport is the most heavily subsidised service within the adult health and social care department and the council's cabinet has agreed a plan to make £900,000 in efficiency savings – largely by changing the eligibility criteria for people to claim subsidised transport.

One of the biggest changes in the report is that someone who receives the mobility component of disability living allowance, person independence payment or war pensioners' mobility supplement will be expected to use this money to fund or pay towards the costs of their own transport.

On top of that, older people who have savings above £23,250 will be expected to pay the full cost of any transport service they receive.

Council chiefs will be issuing older people with guidance on the cheapest transport options available to them, including public transport options.

Defending the cuts to the budget, council bosses have stressed that their hand has been forced by the reduction in the local government grant which central government has imposed on them.

Alev Cazimoglu, the cabinet member for adult health and social care, said: "We are currently consulting on the way the transport budget is spent and would welcome views from service users and their families. Unfortunately, the scale of the efficiencies we expect we will have to make means we will be forced to make efficiencies across virtually all council services in the coming year."

"We have not yet made a decision on the way the service will be provided in future and we will take all the views we receive into account ahead of making a final decision later this year."

Anyone wishing to view the draft proposal and give feedback through the questionnaire can visit http://enfield.gov.uk/info/867/current_consultations/3877/enfield_adult_social_care_transport_policy_consultation

Yobs hurl firework at PCSO

A POLICE community support officer was injured when he was hit by a firework aimed in his direction by a gang of yobs.

The officer was on patrol with colleagues in Hertford Road, Enfield Highway, on Saturday when they came under a fusillade of rockets.

The fireworks were deliberately aimed at the officers from the Enfield Highway safer neighbourhood team by a group of youths in the Albany Leisure Centre car park.

The PCSO was struck on the back by one of the fireworks.

He suffered a slight burn and was treated at the scene.

Police this week issued an appeal to the public for help in identifying those responsible.

Anyone with information is urged to contact Enfield Highway safer neighbourhood team on 020 8721 2903 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Blues boys are blowin' in the wind

AN annual musical homage to arguably the world's greatest singer-songwriter, Bob Dylan, is upping sticks and relocating to Enfield newest live music venue.

A celebration of the legendary artist's music featuring solo acts and bands has been held for the past nine years by the Enfield-based Vintage Blues Association.

First held at the Waiting Room cafe, a coveted railway waiting room in Palmers Green, before moving to the St Harmonica's Blues Club, in St Monica's Parish Centre, in Cannon Hill, Southgate, the Bob Dylan night has become so popular it has outgrown the venue.

For its 10th anniversary it is being staged at the Black Barn in the picturesque surroundings of Forty Hall, in Forty Hill, Enfield, on Saturday, November 14.

Every second Saturday in the month the live music venue stages concerts showcasing established and up-and-coming bands – but the weekend after next it's nothing but wall-to-wall Dylan.

"It is four hours of the maestro's music," said Dave Thomas, of the Vintage Blues Association.

"Bands and solo musicians are invited to come and perform his material. They let us know whether they want to be supported by the house band or just play acoustic. They put their interpretation or sound on it."

And there is so much material to choose from.

"Dylan is in his 70s now, but his career spans 50 years and his legacy as one of the greatest songwriters is untouchable," said Dave.

"Most people are familiar with the anthems like The Times They Are a-Changin', Blowin' in the Wind, Like a Rolling Stone and Mr Tambourine Man, but there are so many songs people don't realise he wrote like Wheels on Fire, the theme tune used in the sitcom Absolutely Fabulous, or Adele's smash-hit Make You Feel My Love.

"And he reworks his classics giving them new arrangements every time he performs keeping them fresh and making them all the more enduring," Dave added.

Tickets for the show are £5 and there is an extended licence with a bar run by the Old Bell pub, in Baker Street, Enfield, with food provided by Forty Hall cafe.

Living legend: Bob Dylan

Now Natalie hopes success will be staring her in the face

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN aspiring singer-songwriter who started off as a lowly busker is about to embark on the next stage of her stellar career.

Natalie Shay, 16, from Enfield, a two-time winner of the Mayor of London's Big Busk competition, is hoping that the release of her latest song And They Stare on Friday will see her star soar.

The teenager studied at Ashmole Academy, in Cecil Road, Southgate, before winning a place at the Brit School, in south London, which boasts Amy Winehouse and Adele among its alumni.

She is a classically trained guitarist and has been playing the instrument since the age of five.

For the past four years she has been writing and performing her own material and won The Guardian Future9 2014 music award as well as the London music award for best undiscovered talent.

Although reluctant to be tied down to one genre, Natalie admits she draws influence from singers and performers including Kate Nash, Mumford and Sons and Snow Patrol.

The single, her second, is available for pre-order from iTunes and to mark the release of her single Natalie performed at the monthly music industry night the Metropolis Sessions yesterday.

If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:

- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
- Are they loose?
- Do not cut food as well as they used to?
- Do they make your face look older?
- Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
- Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN. Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist.

TREATS without tricks were on offer as Broomfield Park was transformed for a Halloween night of fun. Visitors were encouraged to dress up as imaginatively as possible as the park hosted a free event on Saturday as part of the Palmers Scream project. Revellers at the park, in Broomfield Road, could enjoy different entertainment, including spooky stories and films, and be treated to music from Bandstand Bob and his violin.

Children could also take centre stage to learn how to perform the dance from Michael Jackson's Thriller.

Southgate-based inclusive theatre company Chickenshed performed spine-tingling stories and visitors were invited to make a donation to the company if they enjoyed the treats on offer.

Café owner Karen's selling up and moving on

Last orders:
Karen Mercer is selling the café
she has run for the last seven years at Enfield
Chase station

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A CAFÉ owner who championed "coffee, community and cake", not necessarily in that order, has admitted that she has mixed feelings about selling her business after almost a decade serving commuters.

Karen Mercer, who owns My Coffee Stop on Platform One of Enfield Chase Station, in Windmill Hill, Enfield, is selling the seven-year-old business after the landlord hiked up the rent on the small café, which is located towards the London-bound end of the platform.

Karen became a prominent figure in the borough's "shop local" movement when she organised a series of shock cash mobs designed to celebrate and promote local businesses, with groups of ten people visiting stores in Enfield en masse, each with a £10 note to spend there.

She explained: "My highlights of our time here would be the awards that we won such as Enterprise Enfield green business of the year award, the north and west London award for innovation and the silver award in the Love London Smooth FM best coffee category."

Despite difficulties negotiating with the landlord over the length of her lease and rent hikes, Karen says she feels positive about the future, especially as she hopes to sell the business to an Enfield-based entrepreneur who would take on her ethos.

"My dream would be that someone who shares our idea of the importance of coffee, community and cake will buy the business from us," she said.

"If they do, they will be able to keep our brand, so the name would stay the same and they would automatically inherit the Facebook account and Twitter account which has more than 6,000 followers.

"And we would be able to train them up in how we grind the beans and manage to get commuters in a rush out the door and on the train in a matter of seconds."

Although Karen admits she will miss the regulars who have religiously bought their morning caffeine hit from My Coffee Stop, she adds that "our regulars can still have a taste of us" as they will continue to sell freshly ground coffee and beans from her new base in Shepton Mallet, in Somerset.

Anyone interested in buying the business from Karen can contact her via mycoffeestop@gmail.com.

'We may have to build on green belt land,' admits 'old eco-warrior' Sitkin

Borough faces tough choices as it seeks views of residents in advance of the launch of its local plan later this month

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS will be asked their views on how best to deal with an anticipated population boom in the next decade which could see the borough's population rise by a third.

Speaking to the Advertiser before the new local plan consultation is launched later this month, Alan Sitkin, Enfield Council's cabinet member for business and regeneration, explained that because the population in the borough is expected to rise by 100,000 by 2027, the council needs to hear from people on their ideas about the infrastructure required to allow the borough to continue to provide for residents.

"We have a responsibility to keep the local plan up to date," said Mr Sitkin.

So where will these thousands of people flooding into the borough live?

Mr Sitkin admits that "as an old eco-warrior" none of the options they will have to look at are particularly palatable for him.

"We will need 50,000 more housing units in Enfield, so there are unfortunately a finite number of possibilities about where we can build," he said.

"People say they want to build on brown-field sites – but there is only so much brown-field site available.

"We could look at getting rid of our industrial land, but that means that we lose hundreds of jobs.

"We could look at higher density housing, but I am a ward councillor for people who live near the North Circular who are experiencing more building and who already feel like their quality of life is being impacted on."

Mr Sitkin admitted that building on green belt would be something the council would have to consider if it was going to be able to house the population of the borough.

"You have to be responsible about it and you have to put it on the menu," he said.

"We live in a democracy and it is an option people in Enfield will need to think about."

But it will not just be homes that will be in demand as the population increases – with so many more people in the borough there will be an increased demand for school places, GP surgeries and transport infrastructure to support a booming population.

"We will need 52 new forms of entry for primary and secondary schools," explained Mr Sitkin, adding that as well as being consulted on where homes could be built residents will also be asked to consider the best ways to accommodate building the necessary school places.

The consultation will open in the middle of this month and residents can give feedback to the consultation process through an online portal which is yet to be launched.

Responsibility: Councillor Alan Sitkin

Takeaway can reopen following temporary shutdown

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A CHINESE takeaway closed down by the council after equipment and ingredients were found coated in debris and dust from major construction work has been told it can resume trading.

Environmental health officers re-inspected New Wang's, in High Road, Tottenham, on Monday, having discovered walls partly demolished and food and equipment exposed to dust from rubble in a routine inspection of the premises last week.

They were shocked to find bare brick-work and exposed timber in the rubble-strewn building, while the basin for staff to wash their hands had been removed and another sink used for food preparation was coated in dust.

The takeaway, which is listed on the Just Eat and Hungry House websites, was told it must remain closed until it is no longer a risk to public health.

Stuart McNamara, Haringey Council's cabinet member for environment, said: "It is shocking that a takeaway thought they could serve food to unsuspecting customers in such appalling conditions.

"This case highlights the importance of routine health and safety inspections and, thanks to the quick actions of our officers once they saw the state of the venue, we have been able to protect anyone else from the health risk that it posed."

Building site: The scene which faced environmental health officers during their first inspection of New Wang's, in High Road, Tottenham

A member of staff at the takeaway said the closure order had been lifted after it satisfied the council that hygiene regulations had been met.

Extra plans on the drawing board for Chase Farm rebuild

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

DEVELOPERS have submitted additional plans as part of the multi-million-pound scheme to redevelop Chase Farm Hospital.

The amended plan includes a proposal to keep the Highlands wing to be used as rehabilitation wards and changes to the shape and orientation of the new hospital building which could be up to 32,000 square metres.

The scheme also includes a three-form-entry primary school, 500 homes and extra access to the hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, opposite Ridge Crest, and an exit from the school via Shooters Road.

Other details include the extension of the hospital car park, partial demolition of the clock tower complex and removal of the clinical waste treatment plant and fuel oil burner.

The Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust says the changes allow for greater flexibility to expand the building significantly in the future.

The trust's chief executive David Sloman said: "If accepted, these proposals will mean a fantastic new hospital that will meet the needs of the local community for years to come, as well as new homes and school places in Enfield."

A further application which will deal with details including the appearance of the new hospital are set to be submitted to Enfield Council in the next few days and the trust has released an artist's impressions of how the new hospital could look.

The trust took over Chase Farm and Barnet Hospital in 2014. Accident and emergency and maternity services at Chase Farm were shut in 2013, reducing the number of hospital beds at the site.

Copies of the plan can be seen at the hospital and at Enfield Town library, in Church Street. People can also attend drop-in events at the Chase Farm redevelopment hub and meet senior NHS staff to talk about the proposals.

The events will be held between 5pm and 8pm on Monday, November 16, from 10am to 1pm on Wednesday, November 18, and from 2pm to 5pm on Friday, November 20.

The hub will also be open as usual from noon to 4pm on Wednesdays, Thursday and Fridays.

The planning application can also be viewed at www.enfield.gov.uk entering the hospital's postcode EN2 8JL.

How it will look: An artist's impressions of the front, top, and back of the new building at Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, if the redevelopment goes ahead

THE film Suffragette portrays women's struggle for the right to vote, 100 years ago.

Like any historical film, it selects its facts.

We are shown police brutality, force-feeding, lying Liberal politicians.

We aren't shown women trade unionists, such as the Eley workers in Edmonton, or the socialist politicians George Lansbury and Keir Hardie, who supported votes for women.

Meanwhile, back in the present day, about two million men and women will lose their right to vote because they've dropped off the electoral register.

Maybe they don't understand the procedure. In Britain, unlike Europe or the USA, we are not taught at school about our political system.

Or maybe they just can't be bothered. Even among those who are registered, it is the "Don't Vote" party which has won the largest percentage in Edmonton in every general election since 2001.

Those who support one of the main parties are far outnumbered by those, on and off the electoral roll, who support abstention.

The suffragettes lived at a time of direct action. Mass strikes and tenants' campaigns helped to politicise people.

Nowadays we'd rather vote for X Factor than organise direct action.

But the issues – low pay, exploitative landlords and zero-hours contracts – are with us still.

Nobody should be exempt from plastic bag rules

THE illusion of the free plastic bags was always just that, an illusion, and an expensive one.

Retailers passed on the cost to shoppers in the form of higher prices and we paid for their disposal through council taxes or other taxes used for clearing blocked drains and waterways.

It's therefore a relief that seven years after it had the power, and tens of billions of plastic bags later, the government has finally introduced a mandatory charge on single use carrier bags.

All the evidence shows this charge will drastically reduce their use and the environmental devastation they cause.

However, the government's misguided exemption for smaller retailers with a voluntary code is exactly the opposite of the universal plastic bag charge which local shops and their trade bodies wanted.

It's at odds with all other regions in the UK and with the unanimous cross-party view from the London Assembly that a charge should to apply all single use carrier bags. So, a good step, but not far enough.

Looks like the patients are being ignored here

HOW can a borough-wide pilot scheme claiming to offer 15,000 extra GP appointments with no doubt more money for the two surgeries chosen to be open a little longer on weekday evenings and on Saturdays until 4pm be going ahead when patients' committees in the borough know nothing about it?

I would remind the clinical commissioning group that when it was given the money and responsibility for organising our health services in July 2010, the then Secretary of State for Health said: "Patients will be at the heart of the new NHS. Our guiding principle will be 'no decisions about me, without me.' We will bring NHS resources and NHS decision-making as close to the patient as possible."

So why have we been ignored? I can't see why all surgeries are not being given more funding to provide extra appointments themselves, instead of expecting patients to tramp to Edmonton Green or Palmers Green.

This would surely yield more appointments for the same money.

The Over 50s Forum has done well to turn the spotlight on what looks to me like money-grabbing by a select group of GPs at the expense of thousands of patients.

Scant regard for GP views

IN the article by Julia Gregory ("Over-50s leader slams 'unfair' GP pilot project," Advertiser, October 28), Monty Meth quite rightly focuses on the some of the problems of a poorly-thought-through pilot designed to increase GP access for patients.

The CCG has shown such scant concern for the views of committed local GPs that no fewer than 23 practices throughout the borough have felt it necessary to withdraw from the service. No doubt many more are unhappy about this waste of resources.

Thus far the CCG has failed to take any notice of the concerns of its own member practices or indeed of its public. Why? Who is benefiting from this?

Saddened by this closure

I WAS very saddened to hear that the switchboard at Chase Farm was closing. It's disgusting how the managers are carrying on. They say no services will be affected, but yet they are pulling the heart out of the hospital.

I have called Barnet and the Royal Free on several occasions and the operators have been rude and unhelpful. I'm surprised they haven't shut them down. Instead they close a fantastic switchboard down with fantastic operators.

It's not about saving lives, more like saving money. The Royal Free's so-called values are utter rubbish.

Time to chase tax avoiders

COUNCILLOR Chris Bond suggests that the government chases non and avoidance taxpayers ("This draconian reduction will hit low paid workers", Opinion, October 21).

Unfortunately, the UK is still in crisis and people are getting divorced, having children without marrying, living occasionally with partners (and going on holidays funded by the supposedly absent fathers) in order to get benefits. Also speak to doctors who are constantly abused if they refuse to give a sickness letter to a patient. There are too many abusers and it is time that councillors started to investigate what is going on and to stop blaming the government.

Perhaps see who collects children at school. Find out where holidays are taken. Listen to conversations at the job centres. Start DNA tests and trace the missing fathers.

I have heard many stories of how to obtain benefits and suggest it is up to us to shop these individuals.

A licence to buy fireworks needed

IT was a quiet winter evening with people going about their business. The air was chilly, but all in all it was a pleasant atmosphere – children laughing as they went around dressed in their traditional costumes.

All of a sudden it went off, a massive explosion with a thick plume of smoke rising and cascading down the street.

Young children were hiding in gardens scared. Car alarms went off and houses shook under the tremendous force of the explosion, causing people to rush out of their homes to see what had happened.

Was this in some conflict ridden part of the world, was it the Middle East, was it the work of extremists, was it an aviation accident? No, it was on my street in Enfield.

When are we going to be serious about fireworks and the selling of them without proper licences. There are some groups in our society for whom even buying a couple of bags of fertiliser would constitute a need to keep them under surveillance, yet we turn a blind eye to “normal” people buying masses of explosives.

Who’s to say that someone can’t stockpile an amount of these highly explosive items.

I always remember the young lad who was tragically killed a few years ago on the Elsing estate and I am disappointed that nothing seems to have changed since then.

Fireworks now are not the same as when I was a kid – sparklers, Catherine wheels and little penny rockets.

Today they are missiles, cardboard covered grenades and in some cases mini-bombs, and in the hands of immature adults and children are going to get someone seriously injured or killed.

It’s time to ban the sale of fireworks to civilians without them holding a licence to buy.

New homes just a drop in the ocean

I’M delighted to see that Transport for London has announced that it will be making land available for the building of some 10,000 new homes over the next 10 years.

We all know that demand for housing is outstripping supply, so announcements to build more homes are welcome.

However, 10,000 new homes is just a drop in the ocean and while Transport for London tells us it will release more land for development over time, we need hundreds of thousands of homes being built now, not over the next decade. There are stations which could have homes built above them, old yards which could be better used and unused buildings turned into homes.

I urge Transport for London to work with developers to build more homes as quickly as possible.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Remembering: Last year's service at Chase Green war memorial in Enfield

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

CASUALTIES of war will be honoured as people across Enfield join in the national Remembrance Sunday services this weekend.

Mayor of Enfield Patricia Ekechi will join the sombre service at Edmonton Green on Sunday morning.

A parade led by the Edmonton branch of Royal British Legion will meet at Tesco, in North Mall, for a march to the Edmonton Green war memorial, in Church Street, at 10.30am.

There will be hymns and a short service before the congregation joins in the national two minutes' silence at 11am to remember all those who died in two world wars and other conflicts worldwide. The last post will be sounded and there will be a wreath-laying ceremony at the war memorial.
In Southgate, Royal British Legion members will congregate at Tudor Way at 10am before parading at 10.15am along High Street towards St Andrew's Church, in Chase Side.

The congregation will also mark the two minutes' silence at 11am.

Enfield's deputy mayor Bernadette Lappage and Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes will be among those at the commemoration and at a reception and speeches afterwards at the Royal British Legion, in Nursery Road.

In Enfield, a parade will muster at the Royal British Legion in Holtwhites Hill and at Chase Side Primary School, in Trinity Street, at 2.15pm.

The parade heads off at 2.30pm to Chase Green war memorial for a short service of remembrance and wreath-laying.

Afterwards the parade marches to the marketplace in Enfield Town for a salute taken by dignitaries before a march past Enfield Civic

Centre, in Silver Street. The parade will then head back to the Royal British Legion for refreshments.

On Remembrance Day itself (Wednesday, November 11), there will be a short service at the war memorial at the Royal British Legion, in Holtwhites Hill, Enfield, at 11am.

Doug Taylor, the leader of Enfield Council, is urging urged people to attend the services.

He said: "Across the borough, the people of Enfield will pay tribute to those who paid the ultimate price in times of war – the brave people who took the risks to preserve the values of a free country.

"It is in these times that we can be united in giving thanks for their courage, recognising their incalculable contribution to our way of life."

MP's warning over doctors' contracts

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

DOCTORS in Enfield are considering alternative career plans and even thinking about moving abroad to work because of proposed changes to junior doctors' hours, a politician has claimed.

Enfield North MP Joan Ryan told the House of Commons about a doctor who is a constituent and had contacted her "to express her grave concerns at how the changes could impact on the NHS as a whole".

Secretary of State for Health Jeremy Hunt is proposing to change contracts so no junior doctor will be required to work more than 48 hours a week, with a maximum of 72 hours a week.

The changes would also see their normal working hours changed from 7am to 10pm on Mondays to Saturdays, rather than the current 7am to 7pm on Mondays to Fridays. They are paid extra for working beyond those normal working hours.

Ms Ryan said the doctor, who did not want to be named, told her that "a significant number of her colleagues were discussing alternative career plans and many were considering a move abroad to practise in another country".

The doctor predicted that front-line services including casualty, general practice and acute medicine would be hardest hit.

Ms Ryan also described how another constituent Dr Irene Gafson, who is a junior doctor in obstetrics and gynaecology, had joined a march in October and wrote in a national newspaper how she felt let down by the proposal.

Ms Ryan said during the House of Commons Opposition Day debate last Wednesday: "Junior

doctors are the lifeblood of the NHS and the government's handling of the doctors' contracts has caused unnecessary anger across the country. It is now a real threat to the recruitment and retention of NHS staff."

Last week's Opposition Day motion urged the government to issue a guarantee that no junior doctors would have their pay cut as a result of the new contract and called for a return to the negotiating table with the British Medical Association, which represents junior doctors. The motion was defeated.

The BMA will start balloting members tomorrow about strike action.

Boxing clever for community heroes

By Julia Gregory
julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A CALL has gone out to encourage people to become community-minded heroes by volunteering in their free time.

Enfield Council is seeking more "Enfield Heroes" to roll up their sleeves and make a real difference where they live.

An estimated 40 per cent of the population are already volunteers – but the council wants more people to take on tasks including mentoring young people or doing odd jobs for community organisations.

Yasemin Brett, cabinet member for community organisations and culture, said: "We've got an estimated 100,000 heroes in Enfield who already give up their free time to help others.

"That's incredibly community spirited and we enormously value the contribution they make to the borough.

"Enfield Heroes is all about building on the great tradition of volunteering we have in Enfield and encouraging even more people to give their free time to really transform the lives of people in need of help and assistance," she added.

Voluntary groups and community organisations in Enfield can register for the 100 Hours Club to encourage people to volunteer their time.

People who join the club and volunteer for a minimum of 100 hours a year, or two hours a week, will be invited to a civic reception to thank them for their contribution.

They are presented with a certificate and a limited edition pin badge.

If you think voluntary groups in Enfield offer a sterling service to the community, they can be nominated for a Queen's Award for Voluntary Service.

The new accolade was introduced in 2002 to mark the Queen's golden jubilee. To find out more about nominating groups of two or more volunteers, call 020 7 781 2397.

Costakis Evangelou, who volunteers with Edmonton Eagles Amateur Boxing Club, which won a Queen's Award this year, said: "I would encourage everyone that whatever contribution they make it's rewarding and you get back more than you give. It's priceless. You also meet a lot of wonderful people you work with and you learn from different people."

Further details are available at enfield.gov.uk/heroes

Vadi Restaurant was established in 2011 and it is a fully licensed, air conditioned restaurant with a refrigerated display of raw kebabs, a steaming sizzling ocaak grill, a hot table laden with simmering stews and braises. Hot pide and sac breads accompany starters of lentil soup or garlicky cacick, and ezme is a winning dish of roasted aubergine mashed with olive oil, fresh tomato, green herbs and hot pepper. Vadi Restaurant has a capacity of 220 people.

As one of the most famous Ocaakbasi restaurants in London we also have private function rooms available and cater for single, couples and families. Vadi Restaurant is a true open grill restaurant (ocakbasi). It is a friendly place, a world away from the average kebab house and everything on the menu is fresh and served daily.

Race row tweet: charges dropped

By Ruth McKee
ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A WOMAN who was due to appear in court tomorrow over allegations she had tweeted the #killallwhitemen hashtag has had the charges against her dropped.

Bahar Mustafa, 28, from Edmonton, is the diversity officer for students' union at Goldsmiths University of London.

She had been summonsed to appear in Bromley magistrates' court over charges that she had sent a communication conveying a threatening message and with sending a grossly offensive message via a public communication network.

Ms Mustafa had become embroiled in a race row after asking white men not to attend a students' union event for ethnic minority women.

In the course of the spat it was claimed that her detractors had seen tweets from her account in which she had used the hashtag #killallwhitemen.

It has now emerged that the Crown Prosecution Service has dropped the case against the 28-year-old and it is expected that she will be allowed to claim back any legal costs incurred so far.

Ms Mustafa's lawyer Mike Schwarz said: "The decision first to prosecute and then to climb down so soon afterwards, made by the Crown Prosecution Service, calls into question their ability to make sensible judgements on delicate issues."

The initial attempts to prosecute her attracted widespread condemnation and when she was charged slast month a social media campaign in her defence was launched using the hashtag #istandwithbaharmustafa

Charges dropped: Bahar Mustafa

In a video statement uploaded on to YouTube earlier this year after the race row had erupted, Ms Mustafa said: "I, as an ethnic minority woman, cannot be racist or sexist towards white men because racism and sexism describe structures of privilege based on race and gender."

A CPS spokeswoman said: "Following the decision to discontinue this case one of the complainants has now requested a review of this decision under the victim's right to review scheme. It would not be appropriate to comment further on this case until this process has been completed."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Richard Power feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and Richard is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Campaigners may make legal bid to preserve museum

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

CAMPAIGNERS who are opposed to proposed changes which could see the loss of archivist jobs and a reduction in the size of Enfield Museum are considering taking their battle to the courtroom.

Enfield Council has completed a consultation about the future of the local studies centre and museum.

The local authority is considering digitising part of the collections and making the archives an appointment-only service rather than a walk-in centre.

It is also proposed to reduce the display area by ceasing to put on temporary exhibitions on the ground floor of the Dugdale Centre, in London Road Enfield Town.

However, the questionnaire has attracted criticism and some campaigners are considering challenging the council in a judicial review.

The Enfield 229 – Unofficial Friends of Museum and Archive Services group said: “We are not sure what the results of the questionnaire can actually give in terms of detailed understanding.”

The group added: “We have discussed responses with people who thought ‘moving’ the museum literally meant what it said and that the display cabinets and exhibition programme from downstairs were being moved rather than closed.

“Others were positive about digitalisation of archives, only to later discover it was partial, uncosted and done at the expense of staff and open access.”

The group described questions about the museum as “absolutely meaningless” and said that one asking if the proposal would make a difference to people’s enjoyment did not query if respondents thought it would be positive or negative.

Ayfer Orhan, the council’s cabinet member for education, said that was satisfied that the consultation was “robust and fit for purpose” and the council was already digitising some items.

“We are proposing that we will expand this to other items that make sense to do, such as our large collection of images, that might be of interest to the local community and to people around the world who are unable to visit the centre and share in Enfield’s heritage,” she added.

“We will very carefully consider all of the responses to the current consultation and we will take an appropriate approach to delivering the service to the local community and our duty to make proper arrangements for the collections which are under our care.”

Racial abuse victim sought following incident on train

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

DETECTIVES have issued an appeal to find a man they believe was a victim of racial abuse on a north London train.

Several passengers have reported the abuse on a rush-hour Great Northern train after two men are thought to have got on the southbound train at Palmers Green.

Police said a man abused and threatened the victim before getting off the train two stops later at Alexandra Palace.

However, so far the victim has not contacted British Transport Police. Eyewitnesses described the abuser as a slightly-built Asian, black or mixed race man in his 20s.

He had long black hair, which was tied back, light facial hair and a tattoo on the left side of his neck. He was wearing a black hat and leather jacket and dark jeans and trainers at the time of the incident on Monday, October 5.

PC Michael Willoughby, who is investigating, said: "We received reports of a man racially abusing and threatening another man on board a service from Hertford to Moorgate at about 8am."

He added: "A number of passengers were also threatened by the man after they challenged his behaviour. This was extremely intimidating for all those involved on a busy rush-hour train."

He appealed for the victim, for whom police have no description, to come forward and said he also wanted to hear from anyone who recognises the description of the man thought to be involved to get in touch.

Anyone with information should contact BTP on 0800 405040 or text 61016, quoting reference number ESUB/B4 of 28/10/15.

MP vows to carry on with the fight to axe tampon tax

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

WOMEN in the borough who are fed up with paying tax on tampons that they have to buy every month now have Edmonton's MP Kate Osamor fighting their corner.

The debate in the House of Commons was triggered by a petition to axe the five per cent rate of VAT on tampons signed by 252,820 people.

MPs tabled an amendment to the Finance Bill – but despite an alliance of Labour, SNP and a few Eurosceptic Tories the motion was defeated by 305 votes to 287, with the government saying it had no powers to change the tax rate that because it is linked to EU law.

Since 2000, tampons and sanitary towels have been taxed at five per cent. It was reduced from the standard VAT rate of 17.5 per cent by Gordon Brown when he was chancellor.

Speaking after Monday's vote, Ms Osamor said that one of the reasons the "outdated" tax had not been challenged previously was because "menstruation is still taboo in this country".

She added: "I oppose the tampon tax because it is an outdated and unfair tax on an essential product for many women."

"It is time to reverse a decision that was made in 1972 and to change the way we tax a product essential to women's hygiene."

Campaigning for women: Kate Osamor

"I believe that, as a healthcare product, there are grounds for arguing for its exemption from EU laws on VAT."

She said that while there are legal barriers in place that mean the tax cannot be scrapped immediately she was "disappointed" that only three Tory MPs had rebelled against their party's line on the issue.

She added: "This is not the last we will hear of the 'tampon tax' and I will continue to stand against it."

Abraham digs deep in the name of art...

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

SOIL from three Enfield parks has formed part of an exhibit in one of London's major galleries.

The mix of earth and compost from Trent Park, in Cockfosters Road; Arnos Park, in Arnos Road; and Broomfield Park, in Broomfield Lane, Palmers Green, was collected up for an ambitious living sculpture at Tate Modern on the Southbank.

The organic material has been used as part of Empty Lot by Mexican artist Abraham Cruzvillegas, who is best known for creating sculptural works from local objects which he has bought or found.

This installation, which is the first Hyundai Commission at Tate Modern, is made of large stepped triangular platforms made from scaffolding.

They support planters which are filled to the brim with soil and are regularly watered and lit.

However, nothing was planted in any of the soil for the show – Mr Cruzvillegas hopes that visitors might throw some seeds on to the soil or that dormant seeds or bulbs which were already in the ground from Enfield and elsewhere will bloom.

He is interested in "guerrilla gardening" whereby people tend unloved plots, and also the tradition of planting small plots with vegetables in his home town of Mexico City.

The artist collected more than 23 tonnes of soil from parks and gardens across London, including Enfield, to create the 240 individual wooden planters.

He said: "In the middle of a busy commercial area of London, the 'empty lot' is a space where nothing is produced but where change might happen."

The installation will remain in the Turbine Hall of the former power station on London's Bankside until April 3 next year and can be viewed for free.

Daniel Anderson, Enfield Council's cabinet member for the environment, said: "We were asked to participate in the creation of this art installation and we thought, 'Why not?'"

He added: "It's a slightly unusual way to celebrate our parks and we're certainly in good company."

He encouraged art lovers to go and see the installation "and even do some planting if they want to – while they've got the chance!"

The show is open from 10am to 6pm Sunday to Thursday and until 10pm on Fridays and Saturdays.

Patients will not travel, warns GP

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

SOME patients will be unwilling to travel across Enfield to visit one of two GP clinics offering extra appointments this winter, a doctor has warned, as it was revealed that almost half of Enfield surgeries were boycotting the service.

Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group has provided £500,000 funding for an additional 15,000 GP appointments in a six-month scheme which started last month and runs until March 31 next year.

However, 23 of the 49 GP surgeries in Enfield have decided to boycott the pilot programme.

Dr Ian Fletcher, interim head of Enfield GP Healthcare Network, said: "The central aspect is that there is money available for extra appointments, but the way it's being used just won't work. People don't want to go any distance."

He said instead of travelling to the two surgeries offering the extra appointments, patients will simply go to out of hours care or wait to see a doctor at their own surgery.

Dr Fletcher said the money would buy half as many consultations as it could if organised differently and appointments could be provided much closer to patients' homes.

The CCG is planning to evaluate the pilot scheme "with a view to commissioning a service in future".

During the pilot scheme Evergreen Primary Care Centre, in Smythe Close, Edmonton, or Green Lanes Surgery, in Winchmore Hill, will offer patients from other surgeries the opportunity to see a GP between 4pm and 8pm on weekdays and between 9am and 5pm on Saturdays.

Improving access: Clinical Commissioning Group chairman Dr Mo Abedi

Enfield CCG says the service has been developed and designed with GP networks representing all the practices across the borough.

The CCG's chairman Dr Mo Abedi said the scheme aimed to "help improve access to GPs and to reduce pressure on busy A & E departments, especially as we approach the winter months when patients are more likely to become ill and need to be seen quickly".

Patients can get access to the extra consultations via the NHS 111 service if their GP practice is unable to offer an appointment within 48 hours.

Inquest will probe fatal bus accident

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

AN inquest is due to be held today into the death of an Edmonton boy who was involved in an accident with a bus on his way to school.

The collision happened in Fore Street, Edmonton, as David Barcelos, 13, was running for another bus to take him to Gladesmore Community School, in Tottenham on January 15 this year.

The inquest is scheduled to be heard at North London Coroner's Court, in Wood Street, Barnet, with coroner Andrew Walker presiding.

The youngster, from Joyce Avenue, Upper Edmonton, was a promising footballer who had been in talks about training with Arsenal.

According to his father, Manuel Barcelos, David had been crossing the road a few yards from traffic lights when he was fatally injured.

Ambulance crews desperately battled to save the youngster's life by performing CPR at the scene – but he was pronounced dead an hour later in hospital.

After his death tributes poured in for the popular youngster.

His grieving father spoke of his pain at losing his “lovely boy”.

The 42-year-old said his son loved football and told how a couple of days before he died David had been talking to someone at Arsenal about the possibility of training with their youth team.

“He had such a great future ahead of him. He was born in the North Middlesex Hospital just down the road,” Mr Barcelos added.

The headteacher at David's school, Tony Hartney, described him as a “cheerful boy whose friendly manner meant all who met him were warmed by his kindness, his smile and the happiness he exuded”.

'Great future': David Barcelos, 13

It's the Ideal opportunity...

THE Ideal Home Show at Christmas, sponsored by Gocompare.com, is opening at Olympia London for the first time since the multi-award-winning spring show returned to its original venue earlier this year – and we have four pairs of tickets to give away.

The UK's biggest Christmas exhibition will be open from November 25 to 29 to provide everything you could possibly need in the run-up to the festive season, from more than 600 exhibitors showcasing top Christmas shopping inspiration, a plethora of celebrity appearances and a Christmas bandstand hosting live entertainment.

The event will be the first Ideal Home Show at Christmas to be hosted at Olympia following its return earlier in 2015.

The famous venue will be transformed into a winter wonderland featuring exhibitors across seven sectors, as well as a host of festive favourite celebrities including Gino D'Acampo, Laurence Llewelyn-Bowen, Olly Smith and Katie Piper.

Other highlights include a Christmas bandstand full of live entertainment for visitors to enjoy as they shop, a wide range of expert talks and advice, a food and drink theatre featuring top tips from celebrity chefs and even a champagne bar as well.

For your chance to win a pair of tickets, simply answer this question:

■ What is the venue for this year's Ideal Home Show?

a) Wembley Stadium b) Birmingham NEC c) Olympia.

Send your answer, with your name, address and a daytime telephone number, to: Idea; Home Show Competition, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT, or send your answer, with contact details, to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, with "Ideal Home" in the subject line, by noon on Wednesday, November 12.

We need your views on Council Tax Support

As part of the Government's welfare reforms, local Council Tax Support Schemes have been set up to provide financial help towards the cost of Council Tax for low income households. In Enfield most working age recipients of Council Tax Support are expected to pay a contribution towards their Council Tax.

The Council wants to know what local people think of proposals to change the Local Council Tax Support Scheme for 2016-17.

Council Tax Support Scheme consultation closes on 18 December 2015

Why Sean's standing up for comedy once again

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

MULTI-award-winning comedian Sean Hughes tries to make sense of all the mumbo-jumbo on his mind in his new act.

The amiable Irishman brings his show of the same name to Finchley's artsdepot on Friday in the latest leg of his UK tour.

The 49-year-old is instantly recognisable from his 10-year stint as a team captain of BBC's comedy pop quiz Never Mind the Buzzcocks and has also graced the cobbles of Coronation Street, acted in a Miss Marple drama, appeared on the West End stage with Sienna Miller in As You Like It and, recently, in The Railway Children as well as in the film adaptation of Spike Milligan's satirical novel Puckoon.

Stand-up had taken a back seat to television, writing novels and acting along the way, but the acclaimed comedian, who won the prestigious Perrier award 25 years ago, made a comeback on a regular basis five years ago.

"The premise of Mumbo Jumbo is based on the daily battle between common sense and what I call mumbo-jumbo that goes on in my brain," explained Sean.

The show takes a wry look at modern life's motivations, distractions and addictions – "the daily battle that we all have, between common sense and mumbo-jumbo in our heads," he adds.

It features rock-star anecdotes, poetry and, intriguingly, a three-minute musical about ageing.

"The audience loves that bit," he says.

"It so annoys me that music can really bring a crowd together, more than comedy."

Tickets cost £14 and £12 for concessions and the show is for the over-16s only.

The box office is on 020 8369 5454.

A towering tale of romance

BROOKLYN (12A, 112 mins)

YOUNG hearts run free on opposite sides of the Atlantic in John Crowley's handsome romance, adapted for the screen by Nick Hornby from Colm Toibin's novel of the same name.

Set in the early 1950s, Brooklyn harks back to a bygone era of restrictive social mores and is anchored by a tour-de-force performance from Saoirse Ronan as an innocent abroad, whose journey from County Wexford to the towering skyscrapers of New York coincides with her awkward transition to womanhood.

The 21-year-old Irish-American actress doesn't hit a false emotional note, contrasting the naivete of her heroine's early days away from home with the self-assurance of an immigrant, who finally realises that she belongs.

Sweeping production and costume design evoke the era with aplomb, accentuated by Michael Brook's gorgeous orchestral score.

Equally appealing are Emory Cohen and Domhnall Gleeson as rival suitors for the heroine's affections.

Both actors kindle smouldering on-screen chemistry with Ronan, so we're undecided, like her, which of them she should choose as her sanctuary.

Ellis Lacey (Ronan) is a shrinking violet in Enniscorthy.

She lives with her mother (Jane Brennan) and older sister Rose (Fiona Glascott) and earns a meagre crust – and withering rebukes – at the local shop run by the imperious Miss Kelly (Brid Brennan).

Thanks to Rose, Ellis secures a one-way ticket to a brighter future in New York.

Holy man Father Flood (Jim Broadbent) places Ellis at a boarding house for single girls run by Mrs Kehoe (Julie Walters), who clucks over the lodgers including Patty (Emily Bett Rickards), Diana (Eve Macklin), Miss McAdam (Mary O'Driscoll) and Sheila (Nora-Jane Noone).

Ellis's homesickness gradually fades and she excels as a sales girl at a department store under stylish floor manager Miss Fortini (Jessica Pare).

She also sparks a tender romance with handsome plumber Tony (Cohen).

Painfully innocent to courtship rituals, Ellis turns to the other girls at the boarding house and they advise her to carefully choose her bathing costume for an impending trip to Coney Island beach.

"It's the most Tony will have seen of you and you don't want to put him off!" they cackle.

The lovebirds marry in secret, but when Ellis returns home to Enniscorthy, local boy Jim Farrell (Gleeson) unexpectedly turns her head and makes her hanker for small-town life.

Brooklyn is a classic, old-fashioned

Young dreamers: Emory Cohen and Saoirse Ronan in Brooklyn

love triangle, which combines elegant storytelling, strong performances and swoonsome visuals.

Gentle comedy, courtesy of Walters in fine lip-pursing form, underpins the anguished vacillations of the heart and stokes dramatic tension as Ellis dithers between her two paramours.

Toibin's lyrical dialogue trips off the tongue in Hornby's script, succinctly capturing the ebb and flow of life for young dreamers, who come to realise that home isn't necessarily where you were born.

Property tips

Most people love pets; however when selling a home it is best to arrange to have the dog taken for a short walk or pop the cat out the back door. Some people are uncomfortable with even the cutest animals making them nervous and fearful whilst distracting them from admiring the home you are selling.

In print... ...or Online

We'll give you the best of both worlds...every week, all week!

In this rapidly moving technological age people are finding new ways to advertise, especially online via the internet. But contrary to what online sites are saying and common assumptions, print advertising is not dead. There are still benefits and disadvantages to both methods and the best way to succeed is to find a vehicle that covers both bases - and that's where we come in!

The Benefits of print advertising:

1. Print adverts last longer and will be seen often.
2. They will be seen by a large number of people and have the ability to hit a specific audience.
3. There is a more creative potential with print advertising.
4. There is a positive perception of newspaper advertising - it will encourage people to think the client is serious.

The Benefits of online advertising:

1. The advert content can be easily updated.
2. It's online 24/7, 12 months a year, all round the world.
3. A massive audience, with all ages now online.
4. Very quick response - you can be receiving candidates hours after posting your advert.

The Advertiser series of newspapers is distributed every week and the latest editions can be found on our website at

Do you have experience of working or volunteering with children, or young adults with autism or learning difficulties?

Are you keen to start out or further your career within an ambitious and growing organisation that's pushing the boundaries to help every child and young adult with autism fulfil their potential?

Then consider Ambitious about Autism, the national charity for people with Autism. We are currently recruiting across London for the following roles:

Learning and Behaviour Specialists - All levels

£17,579 - £23,023 p.a.

Barnet or Southall

Full or Part-time/Job Share

A ground breaking service providing specialist further education for learners aged 16-25 with complex autism, Ambitious College only opened in 2015 in its temporary site, but already we're helping a growing number of young people with complex autism access specialist education nearer home and alongside their peers. And, we need your help.

We're looking for trainee and experienced learning support staff - Learning and Behaviour Specialists - to deliver high-quality learning support to young adults with autism to enable them to play an active part in their community and pursue their ambitions in relation to further education, work and leisure. Along the way, you'll work alongside teachers, Behaviour Analysts, Occupational Therapists and Speech and Language Therapists as together you support our learners to achieve outstanding outcomes. And, if you're just starting out in your career, you'll be able to embark on our two year Positive Behaviour Support (PBS) Competency Framework training programme.

For all roles, you can look forward to a clear career path within the field of autism education, excellent opportunities for professional development and a great range of benefits, including a generous leave entitlement, health cash plan, season ticket loan, cycle 2 work scheme, childcare vouchers, life assurance and a contributory pension.

To find out more and how to apply please visit our website at: www.ambitiousaboutautism.org.uk

Closing date: 9am on Monday 16th November.

ABA Tutors/Trainees

£15,812 - £23,023 p.a.

Muswell Hill, London N10

Full or Part-time/Job Share

Treehouse School is a thriving, forward thinking non-maintained special school and sixth form for pupils aged 4 - 19. We've been providing specialist education for children with autism since 1997 and are rated 'outstanding' by Ofsted. We have over 140 dedicated staff too, that together help children and young people to learn, thrive and achieve using the principles of Applied Behaviour Analysis. Would you like to be part of this?

You may already be used to delivering high quality 1 to 1 and group teaching across a variety of settings and helping to run a class that meets the day-to-day needs of its pupils. Alternatively, perhaps you're just starting out and would like the opportunity to commit to a two year training programme focussed in teaching children using the principles of ABA where you'll play a vital role in the classroom. Either way, if you have what we're looking for, we'd like to talk to you about how you could soon be playing a big part in our future.

SPARKLING SPURS SET SIGHTS ON GUNNERS

SPURS set themselves up for two more important games in four days with their 3-1 win over Aston Villa at White Hart Lane on Monday night.

They now face a home game against Belgian side Anderlecht in the Europa League tomorrow night before the big showdown with Arsenal in the north London derby at the Emirates Stadium on Sunday.

Mousa Dembele provided the home side with the perfect start against struggling Villa by opening the scoring after just three minutes and Dele Alli made it 2-0 on the stroke of half-time.

Bottom-of-the-table Villa, watched from the stands by new manager Remi Garde, replacing Tim Sherwood, pulled one back after 79 minutes through substitute Jordan Ayew before Spurs clinched victory when Harry Kane scored in stoppage time.

The match marked defender Jan Vertonghen's 100th Premier League appearance for Spurs and Josh Onomah made his Premier League debut when he came on as a substitute for Alli in the closing stages.

Victory lifted Spurs up to fifth place in the Premier League and stretched their unbeaten run to 10 matches – five wins and five draws – since losing to Manchester United on the opening day of the season on August 8.

But head coach Mauricio Pochettino is not getting carried away by the good run as Spurs look forward to the tough assignments ahead.

He said: "It's a good achievement, but to be honest, for me, it (10 matches unbeaten) means nothing because we are ambitious and we want to win the next game.

"The stats are good, but we need to move on. If you look at the past, you stay in the past. We need to improve, to learn."

As for the win, Mauricio admitted that Spurs "suffered a little" when Villa scored but had little doubt the points went to the right side.

"It was a very good game but in football, it's never easy, never done," he added. "We suffered a little in the last 15 minutes when we made a mistake and conceded the goal. That was a difficult moment but we recovered and when Harry scored, we were all happy and I think we deserved to win.

"The team is growing, maturing. We are still young and we need to improve. It's important to learn in every game and even better when you take three points. We're in a good way but now we have to recover and prepare to play Anderlecht."

Brilliant Borough pull off surprise win in Trophy

HARINGEY Borough put up a tremendous performance on Saturday to win 3-1 at Southern League Premier Division outfit Dunstable Town in the first qualifying round of the FA Trophy.

Borough, who are bottom of the Ryman North Division, pulled off a great victory after opening up a 3-0 lead in 68 minutes thanks to a first-half goal from Leroy Griffiths and two more after the break by Ishmail Kamara and substitute Nana Asamoah. By the time Zack Reynolds replied for Dunstable in time added on Borough were home and dry and ran out deserved winners.

Borough, who had lost 4-0 at home to Cheshunt on Tuesday last week, belied their status as underdogs from start to finish. They were sharper throughout than the home side, who were unbeaten in eight league games.

The visitors went ahead after 19 minutes when Griffiths broke away from his marker and supplied a deft finish to a crisp through ball.

A couple of fine saves by Ashley Harris thwarted the best of Dunstable efforts before the interval and Griffiths and Anthony McDonald tested Dunstable goalkeeper Paul Bastock as the first half drew to a close.

Borough continued to run the show in the second half and underlined their supremacy with two spectacular goals.

Bastock had saved well from McDonald before he was deceived by Kamara's overhead kick in the 53rd minute and then Asamoah made it 3-0 with a long-range effort.

Adam Pepera got the ball in the Borough net following a corner, only to have his effort ruled out for an infringement, and Harris denied Chris Vardy and Reynolds before the latter's fine late strike proved of scant consolation to Dunstable.

Borough's reward is a home game in the second qualifying round against another Southern League Premier Division side. They have been drawn against Hitchin Town on Saturday, November 14.

Borough, who were due to visit Erith Town in the London Senior Cup last night, are at home to Thamesmead Town on Saturday (3pm) and travel to Redbridge on Tuesday (7.45pm).

Rugby open day

THE second of two open days aimed at increasing the interest and participation in rugby union in Haringey is due to take place this weekend.

The All Schools programme is funded by the Rugby Football Union and the event is being hosted by Haringey Rhinos RFC at their headquarters in White Hart Lane, Wood Green, on Sunday from 11am to 12.30pm.

RFU coaches have been providing coaching at schools and the first open day on October 25 saw a number of youngsters from those schools join in activities with Rhinos' youth teams to find out what club rugby is all about.

For more information about joining the Rhinos youth teams or the All Schools programme, email haringeyyouthrugby@gmail.com
